Don’t panic. There will be no surprises. All the questions will be similar or identical to what you have as your exercises in Language Files or in my lectures. Here are some hints about how to prepare for it.

Phonetics:
1. Be able to fill in the phonetic symbols (for English), both vowels and consonants, in the provided spaces within an IPA chart. You will be provided with places and manners of articulation.
2. Be able to identify a sound by looking at the anatomical position of the tongue and the speech organs (like the ones on p.62 of LF).
3. Be able to identify a sound when you are given its descriptions.
4. Be able to describe a vowel with regard to the tongue height, tenseness, advancement, and roundedness.
5. Be able to provide phonetic transcriptions for English words.
6. Be able to identify English words by looking at their phonetic transcriptions.
7. You will have to be familiar with the phonetic symbols and their positions in the chart. But you don’t have to memorize the places or manners of articulation since they will be given to you on the chart. As to the vowels, you should be able to describe them.

Phonology:
It will be one of the beginning exercises in p.124-28 of LF. If you are able to solve all the puzzles, you are well prepared.

Morphology:
1. Be able to draw hierarchical structures for some words.
2. Be able to identify and distinguish between inflectional and derivational morphemes.
3. Be able to define and provide examples for ways of forming new words.

The quiz will be straightforward. It will be administered on June 16 (W) and can be done within 30-40 minutes. Then we will watch an interesting film on language.

We will have a review session on June 15. It will be a chance for you to bring your questions, and we will discuss those questions together.
