About me:

My history with cycling begins with a friend introducing me to mountain biking in middle school. Since then riding has grown to be a larger part of my life. In the summer of 2004 I moved to Arizona to pursue a graduate degree in philosophy. Here I discovered a thriving road racing community and quickly traded in the fat tires for a road bike. I quickly upgraded through the ranks and found myself a Cat 1 by the end of 2006. Of course, things got a bit tough racing at the top level of the sport, but I have steadily improved over the last few years to become a much stronger and smarter rider. My specialty is climbing, but I've improved my time trialing greatly and my consistency makes me a good GC rider at the stage races. That said I am comfortable in crits and flatter races where I do whatever I can to help the team win, whether that be riding on the front, hunting for breakaways or marking dangerous riders. After racing some of the bigger races in 2009 (Redlands, Gila, Cascade, Utah) I hope to put this experience to use in 2010 to get as many wins for my team as possible.
