

   PS (Winter): 6-49.
   31: 81-104.
   Caucuses and the Presidential Nominating Process*, ed. Peverill Squire. Boulder, CO:
   Nomination Politics.” PS 17 (Summer): 515-24.
   Election Politics 4:2-5.
   Voter Reactions to Presidential Primaries.” Human Communication Research
   1980 Presidential Primary Campaign.” Sociological Methodology. San Francisco:

231. Fowler, Linda. 1997. “Where Did All the Candidates Go?” In Toward the Millennium: The Quarterly 8:164-79.

374.

Moses, James L. 2000. “William O. Douglas’s ‘Political Ambitions’ and the 1944 Vice-

Westport, CT: Praeger.

Pomper, Gerald M. 1977. “The Nominating Contests and Conventions.” In *The Election of 32

33

   Political Psychology 25 (4, August): 595-610.

571. Reed, A. L., Jr. 1986. *The Jesse Jackson Phenomenon: The Crisis of Purpose in Afro-

575. Rice, Tom W. 1982. "The Determinants of Candidate Spending in Presidential Primaries:

   Convention vs. the Primary.” Presidential Studies Quarterly 24: 357-60.

   Francisco: W. H. Freeman.

   Campaign 1984*, eds., Michael J. Robinson and Austin Ranney. Washington, DC:
   American Enterprise Institute.

   News Coverage of the 1988 Presidential Nomination Races." In Nominating the President, ed. Emmett H. Buell, Jr., and Lee Sigelman. Knoxville: University of Tennessee Press.

   the 1976 New Hampshire Primary: The Focus of Network Journalism." Journal of Broadcasting 21: 177-86.

   York: Russell Sage Foundation.

641. Southwell, Priscilla L. 1991. “Open versus Closed Primaries: The Effect on Strategic Voting and Candidate Fortunes (Super Tuesday 1988),” Social Science Quarterly 72 (December

676. Thompson, Kenneth W., ed. 1983. The Presidential Nominating Process: Broadening and

Academy of Political and Social Science 572 (November): 29 - 32.

Close the Wisconsin Primary. Columbia, MO: University of Missouri Press.

Wilcox, Clyde, et. al. 2003. “Campaign Contributions and Democracy.” In Is This Any Way

Government Documents

Party Documents

