PRIMARY NON-HODGKIN LYMPHOMA PRESENTING AS ILEOCOLIC INTUSSUSCEPTION

P.H. Gerst, M. Niazi, V. Narasimha, R. Saraiya, E. Albu

Departments of Surgery (PHG, VN, RS, EA) and Pathology (MN), Bronx-Lebanon Hospital Center, Bronx, New York USA

ABSTRACT

We report the case of an HIV-seropositive patient with non-Hodgkin lymphoma of the small intestine who presented with an ileocolic intussusception. This lesion fulfilled the diagnostic criteria for primary gastrointestinal lymphoma. Such a neoplasm in an immunocompromised patient is usually more aggressive and less responsive to treatment than in an HIV-seronegative patient.